THANK YOU FOR YOUR SERVICE

Richmond American is proud to help the men and women of our armed forces attain the dream of homeownership. That's why we offer incredible VA loans¹ featuring:

NO MONEY DOWN⁷ NO CLOSING COSTS⁶

Call our affiliate, HomeAmerican Mortgage Corporation,² at 844.283.3642 today for details. Dear Homebuyer,

Embarking on the path to homeownership is an exciting step, even if it isn't your first time around. Relocating every few years may even be a way of life for you if you've been in the military for a long time. We hope this guide can answer some of your questions so you can relax and enjoy the homebuying process from start to finish.

At Richmond American, we appreciate your service to our country and we understand the decisions and opportunities you face as a military homebuyer. Many of our newest communities are conveniently located near military bases. Be sure to check out page 18 to learn how to find and compare communities near your base.

We have homes across the country at various stages of construction, from ready to break ground, to ready for move in. Talk to one of our local home search pros about the options that will fit your needs and timeframe. They'll do the research and set up appointments for you.

Thank you again for your service, and enjoy the journey to your new home!

Sincerely,

David D. Mandarich President & Chief Executive Officer David Viger Chief Operating Officer

THE DECISION TO BUY

Buying a new home is a big step for anyone. When you serve in the military, the homebuying process comes with an extra set of questions and considerations. Because many of Richmond American's communities are located near military bases, we work with buyers from all branches of the military, and have even sold homes to buyers serving as far away as Japan and Afghanistan.

HOME MAINTENANCE MADE EASIER

Minimizing home maintenance is a top priority for many home shoppers, especially for single buyers and households with a spouse deployed overseas. A brand-new, never-been-lived-in home is sometimes the best option. Learn what we're doing to make life easier on page 15.

Over the years, we've become keenly aware of everything that's involved in the homebuying process for service members and their families. We hope this guide will answer many of your questions and give you the confidence you need to take the next step. Here's a glimpse at what you can expect to learn.

BENEFITS OF HOMEOWNERSHIP

From tax perks to stable housing costs, check out the advantages of homeownership from a military perspective on the next page.

VA LOAN INFORMATION

Do you qualify for a loan guaranteed by the Department of Veterans Affairs? Is VA financing the best option for your situation? The discussion starts on page 8.

RELOCATING

When you serve in the military, relocation can happen more often than with many other professions. Learn what you can do to prepare, starting on page 17.

TIPS & CHECKLISTS

Throughout this guide, we've included tips, checklists and worksheets to help you organize your thoughts and get a clearer picture of where you stand in the homebuying process.

BENEFITS OF HOMEOWNERSHIP

When you decide to become a homeowner and make your American dream a reality, get ready to enjoy a range of benefits. We've summarized some of the main advantages below, though nothing will compare to the pride you'll feel when you're handed the keys.

WHY BUY NEW?

Reason 1 - Who wants to peel off old wallpaper? When you buy a new home, you can spend your free time on something other than renovating. Trade in repairs for relaxation!

Reason 2 – A new home generally means a new community built with convenience and quality of life in mind: enjoy closer proximity to commuter routes, newer schools and the latest in amenities.

Reason 3 - With a resale home. structural and decorating choices have already been made. With a new home, you can make these personal decisions. At Richmond American, you can explore your options for everything from flooring to cabinetry at the Home GalleryTM. Go to RichmondAmerican.com and browse our Design section to learn more.

Reason 4 – New homes generally come with a warranty,³ providing you with greater peace of mind.

STABLE HOUSING COSTS

While renters' monthly payments go to a landlord, mortgage payments made by homeowners can build equity. For those who choose a fixed-rate mortgage, the principal and interest payments are fixed for the life of the loan, a clear advantage over potential rental market fluctuations.

YOU CAN MAKE IT YOURS

If you're like many homebuyers, you've been inspired by home design shows on television, and this is your chance to decorate your living space to match your tastes. If you've been renting, you will have more opportunities to decorate your home to reflect your personality with paint, window coverings, landscaping and more.

MILITARY TAX BENEFITS⁴

- 1. When you're active in the military, you may be eligible for a Basic Allowance for Housing (BAH), which is meant to provide you with compensation for housing based on the housing costs for the area where you are stationed. Because this allowance is tax free, you have a tremendous opportunity to buy a home and build equity using tax-free funds. See the next page for more information about BAH.
- 2. As a homeowner, you may also be able to receive a tax deduction for 100% of your mortgage interest, provided you meet the guidelines. Visit Military.com/Finance/Taxes to learn more about how you can benefit

NEED TO MAKE A QUICK MOVE?

Buying a brand-new home doesn't mean you'll have to wait months for it to be built. Richmond American has quick move-in homes already under construction—perfect for when you need to move on a short timeline.

GETTING STARTED

From house hunting to putting in an offer, there are many things to learn on the road to homeownership. But before you get too far, be sure to do your homework. Even if this isn't your first homebuying experience, you will need to take some initial steps before you apply for a mortgage.

THE IMPORTANCE OF BUDGETING

Regardless of your income, it's important to look at your finances and find out what you can afford before you start your search for a new home. If you don't already have a budget, write down all of your regular expenses and determine what kind of payment you feel comfortable making every month. Use the worksheet provided on the next page. It's easy to fall in love with a home that's out of your reach. Having a total cost in the back of your mind when you start shopping will help you stay on track.

FACTORING IN A BASIC ALLOWANCE FOR HOUSING (BAH)

As you may already know, BAH is an allowance given to members of the military assigned to permanent duty within the 50 United States, but not furnished with government housing. The BAH is based on local civilian housing costs (rent, average utilities and renter's insurance).

The amount of the BAH is adjusted by duty location, pay grade and dependents. Your rate can adjust over time to reflect fluctuations in housing costs in your area. As long as you do not experience a change in status, your rate should not decrease.

THINGS TO REMEMBER...

- A BAH does not guarantee that you won't have out-of-pocket housing expenses. Because it is based on several factors, including median housing costs in your duty area, there may be a gap between the compensation provided and what you actually spend.
- The BAH rate is linked to the zip code of your U.S. duty location, not your residence. Make sure to take this into consideration if you plan on living in a zip code other than the one where your base is located.
- Members of the military serving overseas may qualify for an Overseas Housing Allowance (OHA) or for a BAH for U.S.-based dependents, depending on their circumstances.

CHECK YOUR CREDIT REPORTS

Lenders use your credit score to help determine your credit worthiness, and therefore the interest rate they'll be willing to offer. Even if you think you have great credit, errors on your reports may be lowering your score. Make sure you get a separate report from all three major credit reporting companies because they collect information separately and may report different errors. By law, you're entitled to a free report from each of these companies annually. To request your credit reports, go to annualcreditreport.com.

THREE CREDIT SCORE TIPS

You know you need to pay your bills on time and avoid bankruptcy to keep your credit score up, but what else can affect your number? Here are three things you may not have considered:

1. Keep old accounts open

Closing old credit card accounts can affect your credit score negatively in two ways. First, it can shorten your average account age, making you look less reliable to lenders. Second, closing accounts reduces the total credit available to you, which makes any balances you do have appear larger in proportion.

2. Hold off on major purchases

Have money saved up for a new TV? You may want to hold off. While increasing debt affects your credit score, keeping money in your savings account is also important. Mortgage lenders may see you as less of a risk if you have a cash reserve to get you through tough times.

3. Don't apply for new credit cards or loans

Using credit cards responsibly may improve your credit, but opening new accounts shortly before or during your mortgage application process can lower your average account age and result in a lower overall credit score. Increasing your debt during this timeframe with new loans for things like cars and furniture can also negatively affect your credit.

START WINDOW SHOPPING

You owe it to yourself to be an informed buyer. The internet is a good place to start. Even if you're miles away, you can view homes for sale, as well as home values in your new area. You can also look up tax information and explore market trends by neighborhood or zip code.

One mistake buyers often make is to assume they can't afford a brand-new, never-been-lived-in home. Take a look at Richmond American's website, RichmondAmerican.com, and you may be surprised how competitive prices are. New homes also tend to be more energy efficient, which may provide savings on utility bills. Plus, Richmond American's new homes come with warranties³ and offer you the opportunity to choose your own fixtures and finishes.

UNDERSTANDING FINANCING

Securing financing is one of the first steps on your way to owning your dream home. This section of the guide is dedicated to helping you sort through the basics of home financing so you know what to expect during the buying process.

MORTGAGE BASICS

So what is a mortgage? It's a basic question, but even seasoned homebuyers don't always know the answer. Technically, a mortgage is a pledge of your property as security for payment of your home loan. Typically paid in monthly increments, your monthly loan payment will be made up of four parts, commonly referred to as PITI:

P = Principal

The amount owed on your loan, excluding interest

I = Interest

The interest paid in monthly increments for the life of your loan

T = Taxes

Your monthly property tax payment (approximately 1/12 of the total property tax for the year)

I = Insurance

Referred to as hazard insurance or homeowner's insurance, this coverage protects your home and certain possessions, and can help protect you from liability claims or lawsuits for accidents on your property

ADDITIONAL EXPENSES

The components of PITI will typically make up your main home expenses each month. When estimating your monthly budget, you will also need to factor in these possible monthly costs:

Homeowner Association (HOA) fees

A homeowner association is an organization that enforces covenants and rules for the community and maintains shared property, such as open spaces, parks and community pools. If you buy a home in a community with a homeowner association, you will become a member of that HOA, and will be responsible for any HOA fees. Be sure to investigate the cost of membership ahead of time to make sure the added expense is within your budget.

Additional taxes

Check to see if the home you want to buy is located in a special district, sometimes called a Community Facilities District (CFD). Property owners in these districts pay additional taxes to fund public improvements, such as schools, parks and roads.

Private Mortgage Insurance

Private Mortgage Insurance (PMI) is a form of insurance typically required for homebuyers who take out a conventional mortgage loan for more than 80% of the total value of the home. This added insurance protects the lender against loss if the borrower defaults on the loan. If you opt for a loan guaranteed by the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA), PMI is not required.

Monthly mortgage insurance

Homeowners with a Federal Housing Administration (FHA) insured loan are required to pay monthly mortgage insurance, even if they make a larger down payment. VA home loans do not require monthly mortgage insurance.

VA HOME LOANS

A VA home loan is a mortgage loan guaranteed by the Department of Veterans Affairs. VA financing was created by the government to benefit Americans who have served their country in the military. If you are currently in the United States military, or if you have ever served in the U.S. Armed Forces, you may be eligible. Many service members choose to take advantage of VA financing because of these main benefits:

- You may purchase a home with no down payment,¹ subject to VA guidelines in your area.
- You may choose a fixed-rate or an adjustable-rate mortgage.
- There are limits to the amount of closing costs you will have to pay.
- You are not required to pay monthly mortgage insurance or PMI.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE FOR A VA LOAN?

You might be eligible for a VA loan if:

- You currently serve on regular active duty in the military.
- You have served on regular active duty in the military and have since been discharged.
- You have served in the Selected Reserves or National Guard for at least six years.
- You are an unmarried spouse of a veteran who died on active duty, or as a result of a service-connected disability.

FACT: If you obtain a VA loan and later sell your home, you may be eligible for another VA loan in the future.

OTHER LOAN OPTIONS

If you are eligible for a VA loan with no down payment, there's no denying that going that route is a very attractive option. But depending on your individual situation and lifestyle, you may want to consider other loans.

Federal Housing Administration Insured Mortgages (FHA)

The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) is a part of the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). FHA-insured loans allow you to buy a home with a down payment as low as 3.5% of the purchase price.

Quick facts about FHA mortgages:

- A monetary gift from a family member may be used for your down payment.
- FHA insured loans are typically fixed-rate mortgages, but adjustable rates are also available.
- FHA financing requires an Upfront Mortgage Insurance Premium (UFMIP). This premium can be financed in the loan amount or paid in cash at the time of closing.
- FHA financing also requires a Monthly Mortgage Insurance Premium (MMIP). This premium will be included as part of your monthly mortgage payment.

Conventional mortgages

Conventional mortgages are mortgages that are not obtained under a government insured or guaranteed program, such as programs operated by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) or the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA).

Quick facts about conventional mortgages:

- Conventional loans typically require a minimum down payment of 5%, which is generally higher than government-backed loans.
- Conventional loans usually require higher credit scores than FHA or VA loans.
- Private mortgage insurance is required if the loan-to-value ratio is greater than 80%.
- After the buyer makes a 5% down payment from his or her own funds, a gift may be used for additional down payment.

FIXED-RATE MORTGAGES \	S. ADJUSTABLE-RATE MORTGAGES
Interest rates and regular monthly payments stay fixed for the life of the loan.	ARM loans have interest rates that periodically adjust.
Typical terms for fixed-rate mortgages span 15 or 30 years.	The initial interest rate tends to be lower for an ARM than for a fixed-rate mortgage, which means you may end up paying less per month initially than with a fixed-rate loan.
Your mortgage payment is not affected by interest rate increases.	The interest rate you pay will generally drop if prevailing interest rates decrease.
Consistent monthly payments mean it's easier to budget your finances.	If interest rates increase, then your payment will also increase.
At the time of financing, fixed-rate mortgages tend to have higher interest rates than adjustable-rate mortgages.	Future interest rate increases could make your house unaffordable.
Your mortgage payment will not go down if interest rates decrease.	Depending on the type of ARM, the interest rate may be "fixed" for a period of time, after which it will be adjusted and will continue to adjust periodically thereafter.

THE LOAN PROCESS

Once you have an idea of what kind of loan you might want to apply for, it's time to take the next step—start the loan process! Pre-qualifying is an easy way to determine how much you may be able to borrow and allows you to start looking for a home that fits your budget.

GETTING PRE-QUALIFIED

Vhether you submit intormation online or by phone, you will need to have the tollowing items handy:
Most current 30-day pay stub or Leave and Earnings Statement
All asset information (recent two-month checking/savings account info, retirement funds, stocks, bonds, etc.	c.)
Creditor information (credit card statements, auto loan statements, etc.)
 Dates of employment; address and phone number of current and previous employers
☐ W-2 forms for the last two years
Rental information for the last two years (if applicable)

Once this information is received, a loan officer can give you a ballpark figure on the amount you may be qualified to borrow for a home loan based on your income and credit history. Ready to get started? Contact Richmond American's affiliate, HomeAmerican Mortgage today at 844.283.3642. The sooner you can get pre-qualified, the quicker you can act when you find a home you love.

WHAT TO EXPECT DURING THE LOAN PROCESS

Securing financing you feel confident about is an important part of your home purchase. Your mortgage should be tailored to your individual budget, goals and lifestyle. When you choose HomeAmerican Mortgage,² a professional loan officer will be there to walk you through the process. Here's a quick glimpse of what to expect from start to finish.

THE LOAN APPROVAL PROCESS

Step 1 – Speak with a loan officer

Your loan officer is someone you will be working with throughout the entire homebuying process. During the initial conversations with your loan officer, you will discuss your budget and basic financial information. Call 844.283.3642 to find a loan officer with HomeAmerican Mortgage Corporation.²

Step 2 - Get pre-qualified

You can usually submit your information online or by phone to get pre-qualified. Have your most recent pay stubs and bank statements on hand. Soon after you submit your information, you will receive a loan estimate of the anticipated closing costs.

Step 3 – Processing your loan

You will need to provide bank statements, pay stubs and other documentation to verify the information you provided on your initial application.

Step 4 – The commitment letter

If your loan is conditionally approved, you will receive a commitment letter, which sets out many of the key terms of the loan, the length of time for which those terms are offered, and any other items necessary to finalize the loan.

Step 5 – Final approval

Once all items necessary to finalize the loan are received—including, for example, the property appraisal—your loan officer will let you know that you are ready for closing.

Step 6 - Closing

Prior to your closing date, you will receive a closing disclosure which summarizes the costs and fees associated with the transaction and the amount of money you need to bring to the closing table.

CHOOSING A HOMEBUILDER

Buying a new home offers distinct advantages that you'll want to keep in mind when you start house hunting. These can include lower maintenance costs, greater energy efficiency, a homeowner's warranty and proximity to shopping and newer schools. And because you won't be renovating, you can spend your free time doing the things that are most important to you.

If you decide to buy a new home, choosing a homebuilder will be an important decision. No matter what the economic conditions are, you will want to make sure the company is financially stable and will be able to finish construction and service any warranty requests after you settle in. When you buy a new home, you'll probably also want to select the fixtures and finishes yourself. Make sure the builder gives you the options you're looking for. Here are some questions to ask:

Whether you're out of state, overseas or just around the corner, we offer more ways to get the answers you need when you're shopping for a new home.

HOME SHOPPING TIPS

TIP 1 :: THINK ABOUT LIVABILITY

There are many questions you should be asking yourself as you walk through model homes. Is there enough cabinet space? Is the laundry room conveniently located? These are some of the "livability" topics that guide Richmond American architects and designers every day as they create new floor plans. Here's a list of things we recommend looking for when you walk in the door:

Kitchen ☐ Is the path from the garage to the refrigerator convenient for bringing in groceries? ☐ Is there ample cabinet/pantry space?
 □ Can you get between the refrigerator and the kitchen island with ease? □ Is the pantry location convenient? □ Are the sink and dishwasher in close proximity to each other? □ Is there enough space to pull the chairs out from the table without blocking a door? □ Are there multiple eating spaces, such as a nook and a kitchen island? □ Is the kitchen nook sized to accommodate a table large enough for your needs? 	THINK ABOUT IT! Be flexible. Some creative thinking may help you find a home that works perfectly for you. For example,
Primary bedroom ☐ Is there enough room to comfortably fit your bed, two night stands and a dresser? ☐ Are there electrical outlets where you will position your nightstands?	if you're looking for four bedrooms with the intent of using the fourth bedroom as an office, you may
Family room/great room ☐ Can you place your television where you can see it from the sofa? ☐ Is the hallway large enough to get a sofa into the room? ☐ Is the space versatile enough to allow your entire family to enjoy the space at the same time? ☐ Are the outlets ideally situated for your cable/home theater components?	want to consider 3-bedroom floor plans with a study or a loft space.
Bathrooms ☐ Is the bathtub faucet conveniently located? Do you have to reach over the toilet to rur ☐ Is the towel rack in a logical spot?	n the water?
Whole house ☐ Are the light switches located in the most convenient places? ☐ Will you have to buy custom furniture to fit into small spaces? ☐ Is there a lot of wasted space at the end of hallways or other areas of the house? ☐ Is there ample closet/storage space? ☐ Is there enough room in the garage for more than just your cars? ☐ Does the window placement maximize lighting and energy efficiency?

TIP 2 :: CONSIDER YOUR DESIGN CHOICES

If you buy a resale home, you will already know what your cabinetry and flooring look like. But if you're buying a brand-new home, you will likely be able to make the design decisions yourself. Not every homebuilder lets you choose your fixtures and finishes in the same way. If selecting your home finishes is important to you, you need to ask about this process up front.

Questions to ask about design selection:

- Will you have a wide variety of cabinet and flooring choices?
- Is there any design assistance available or will you be left to make decisions on your own?
- How long will you have to make your design decisions?
- Can you include the cost of your selections in your monthly payment?

TIP!

Richmond American's Home Gallery™ offers hundreds of ways to personalize your new home and a design consultant on hand to help you create a look you'll love for years to come.

TIP 3 :: RESEARCH THE SCHOOL DISTRICT (YES, EVEN IF YOU'RE NOT A PARENT)

If you have school-age children, you'll already have schools on your mind when you're looking at prospective neighborhoods. It's always good to do your homework to make sure your child will receive the best education you can afford to provide. But what if you don't have kids or don't plan to in the future? It still pays to look at this information. When you decide to trade in your home for a new one down the road, selling your house will be much easier if you're in a great school district.

There are many websites dedicated to providing information about schools and their programs. You can go to GreatSchools.org, the site that put together the rankings for the Best High Schools in America for BusinessWeek, to research test scores, read parent reviews and compare area schools.

TIP 4:: CONSIDER LOW-MAINTENANCE OPTIONS

If there's a chance that you could be deployed out of the country, be sure to think about options to make home maintenance easier for someone else to handle. What's available? For one thing, newer homes may require less maintenance and may come with a warranty.3 Second, the new appliances that come in a new home are not only cleaner and more efficient, but usually have less of a chance of needing repairs from the start. Richmond American also offers low-maintenance landscaping options that make yard work a breeze.

TIP 5 :: ASK ABOUT ENERGY-EFFICIENT FEATURES

Richmond American offers a variety of energy-saving features. See the next page for a more complete look at the features that may be included in our homes.8

RELOCATING

Relocation can be common to the military life. Doing research ahead of time will ensure that your moving experience goes as smoothly as possible.

IS BUYING YOUR BEST OPTION?

This is the age-old question for anyone thinking about buying a new home, but for military personnel, the question is even more complicated. For one thing, it can be difficult to know how long you may be stationed in one location. Relocation can happen frequently. But serving in the military also has its advantages. Special mortgage programs and a housing allowance can make owning a home an attractive and affordable option.

Things to consider...

- If you own a home and you're currently in the military, you may be able to deduct 100% of your mortgage interest, even if you pay for it with your tax-free housing allowance. See page 3 for more information.
- Depending on where you live, and the current housing market, buying a home may actually be cheaper than renting. Look into it!
- Renting means being somewhat free of maintenance responsibilities. This can be attractive, especially for families who face the possibility that one spouse might be deployed overseas. What you may not realize is that many new homes are designed to be low maintenance as well.
- When you own a home, you have the chance to build equity, and you'll be protected from unexpected rent increases.

FINDING A COMMUNITY

Once you decide that buying is the best option, it's time to find a neighborhood. The feeling of home is about more than just the house you live in—it's about the location and the lifestyle of the area. As a homebuyer, you need to find a place where you can be comfortable putting down roots. Richmond American focuses on building communities with a variety of amenities and convenient locations with quick access to schools, shopping and more. Many of our neighborhoods are located in close proximity to military bases from coast to coast.

MILITARY BASES NEAR OUR LOCATIONS

YOU CAN FIND AND COMPARE OUR COMMUNITIES NEAR MILITARY BASES IN TWO WAYS:

- 1. Call our Homebuyer Resource Center at 866.470.0891. One of our New Home Specialists will be happy to see what we offer near your new duty station and further narrow the list according to your floor plan needs and housing budget.
- 2. Using the filters on our website, you can search by the basics—like bed and bath count, price and size—and then take your browsing to the next level with parameters like neighborhood schools, standard features and amenities.

Note: If you do not see "Near military base(s)" as an option on the list, we may not have active results for the area you're searching. We encourage you to call our Homebuyer Resource Center for assistance.

ACTIVE-DUTY MILITARY MOVES

If you are currently in the military and making a Permanent Change of Station, or PCS, certain benefits are available that may make your move simpler, less stressful and less expensive.

You'll doubtless receive a lot of support throughout your move, but a good place to go to get a preview of what you can expect is Move.mil, the official Department of Defense moving portal. There, you can get information about:

- Researching your new base
- · Learning your options for transporting household goods, personal vehicles and other property
- Accommodations for family members (including pets)
- Scheduling your move
- · Packing and preparing for moving day
- Estimating moving costs and entitlements (such as a moving allowance)
- Unpacking and settling in

The site is a treasure trove of tips, tools, tutorials, FAQs, contact information and other resources to help you every step of the way.

YOUR MOVING CHECKLIST

 2 months before □ Get estimates from moving companies and/or storage units (if needed). □ Sketch or print your floor plan and start thinking about furniture placement. □ Make a list of people you want to give your new address to when you move. □ Go through each room of your home and designate items for donation or yard sale. □ Take an inventory of your valuable belongings for insurance purposes.
 6 weeks before □ If you're packing yourself, collect boxes and other necessary supplies. □ Start packing the items you don't access often. □ Set an official moving date. □ Settle on a moving company and make your reservations (non-PCS). □ Make any necessary travel arrangements (don't forget your pets). □ If you have children, have their records transferred to their new school or daycare. □ Obtain your medical records to give to future medical providers. □ Organize and host a yard sale. □ Contact your insurance consultant to research insurance carriers and tailor a policy for your new home.
 1 month before □ Check with your loan officer to make sure you've submitted everything needed for your loan application. □ File with the post office to have your mail forwarded to your new address. □ Call utility companies to cancel services at your current home and activate your services at your new home on the appropriate dates. □ Pick up all items out for dry cleaning. □ Pick up any prescriptions and have your prescriptions transferred to a pharmacy near your new home. □ Properly dispose of cleaning solutions, flammable liquids and other items that can't be moved.
 1 week before □ Return all library books. □ Call to confirm any travel arrangements. □ Change your address with your creditors, mail-order subscriptions, financial institutions and other companies and organizations as necessary. □ Move the contents of any safe-deposit boxes as needed. □ Send friends and family your new address. □ Stop or redirect current newspaper deliveries. □ Finish packing, if necessary, and pack yourself a suitcase with a few days' worth of clothing, toiletries and any valuable belongings you prefer to keep with you. □ Empty, defrost and clean out your refrigerator. □ Drain your washing machine and hoses. □ Arrange for childcare/pet care for moving day. □ Confirm your reservation and prepare your payment and tip for the moving company (if needed). □ Print a map and directions to your new address for the movers (if needed).
 Moving day □ Supervise any moving company workers as they pack/move your belongings (if needed). □ Leave a note to the new residents and include you your new address in case the post office doesn't forward your mail right away. □ Scout out every room, cupboard and closet to make sure you don't leave anything behind. □ Turn off lights, lock windows and close and lock doors before you leave.

It may be possible to take advantage of the VA Home Loan program a second time, provided that you meet the proper requirements. To find out more, go to benefits.va.gov/homeloans

WHAT SERVICE IS NOT ELIGIBLE FOR A VA HOME LOAN?

Most active-duty service members who have served at least 181 days will be eligible for a VA home loan. To see if you meet the requirements, visit va.gov/housing-assistance/home-loans/eligibility

WHAT DOCUMENTS DO I NEED TO APPLY FOR A VA LOAN?

See the Military Homebuyer Borrower's Checklist on page 11.

CAN I AFFORD TO BUY A HOME?

Take a look at your finances and find out how much you have to spend on a monthly mortgage payment. Once you set up a budget and know what you can afford per month, it's time do some market research. Take a look at what homes are going for in your area. Then check on current interest rates. There are many mortgage calculators out there that can help you estimate your monthly payment using an estimated home price and interest rate.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR A BAH?

BAH stands for Basic Allowance for Housing. If you are an active member of the military on permanent duty in the Continental U.S., and can provide proof that you pay rent or pay a mortgage, you may be eligible for a BAH. For more details, see page 3.

EVALUATING CURRENT MARKET TRENDS

Economic conditions affect supply and demand in the housing market, which in turn impact prices. How does this affect you as a homebuyer? The way the market is trending may contribute to how much you pay for your home, as well as your monthly payment. The good news is there are benefits to every type of market.

SELLER'S MARKET

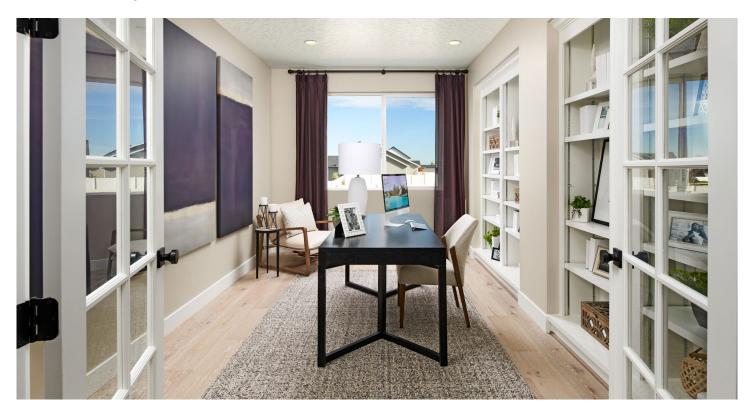

Economic booms and job growth generally lead to a more active housing market, often resulting in higher prices and a rise in interest rates. This is called a seller's market because homeowners looking to sell their homes have the advantage. There are usually more buyers willing to pay higher prices. Under these conditions, it's not uncommon to see bidding wars and financing options with high monthly payments.

BUYER'S MARKET

A downturn in the economy tends to trigger a buyer's market. In this type of market, there is usually a large supply of homes and less demand, meaning buyers can get more for their money. Market downturns generally bring interest rates down as well, making monthly mortgage payments more affordable.

A LESSON FROM HISTORY

The real estate business is cyclical, similar to other industries, meaning it has its ups and downs. Fortunately, there are usually advantages associated with the different stages in the cycle, even in down times. Make sure you know the state of the market so you can leverage any advantages available for you. Is it currently a seller's market? It may be the perfect time to sell your current home and find a new home that better meets your needs. Is it a buyer's market? You may be able to get more for your money and enjoy lower interest rates. If history is any judge, it's only a matter of time before the current cycle shifts, so act now if you want to take advantage of current conditions.
